WELCOME LETTER

Each year, thousands of young people in Massachusetts come in contact with the juvenile justice system. These young people are disproportionately children of color, children from the child welfare system, children coming from areas of concentrated poverty, and LGBTQ children. For the majority of these young people, interactions with the legal system are overwhelmingly negative, increase the risk of poor outcomes and may even increase future legal system involvement. Progress in reforming our legal system into one that is fair and works to create positive outcomes for all system-involved youth, creating stronger and safer communities for everyone, depends on the actions of elected officials who support or oppose these reforms. These elected officials deeply shape how our society treats young people. With youth accounting for half of the voting population, your vote can decide the state's policies and political influence over the next four to six years.

This nonpartisan voter guide is intended to ensure that you, as a voter, know your rights and are informed in your decisions. This guide compiles the responses to a detailed questionnaire of youth justice issues especially relevant to Massachusetts voters for candidates running for District Attorney, Sheriff, and Governor's Councilors. All candidates' responses are published here unedited. A supplemental guide will include the responses of three statewide offices: State Auditor, Attorney General and Governor.

This voter guide is intended for educational purposes. The above not-for-profit, non-partisan organizations do not endorse any candidates or political parties for public office. Candidates (last name) and political parties are listed in alphabetical order. Only candidates receiving enough signatures to appear on the Primary or General Election ballot were invited to participate in this voter guide.

A VISION FOR A MORE JUST AND EQUITABLE LEGAL SYSTEM

While this guide focuses on key decision points in our child welfare, education and legal systems, it is important to recognize that the policies and practices set by elected and appointed officials at these decision points all add up towards achieving a vision of “justice.” This guide is driven by shared values of the organizations partnering in the development of this guide with a vision of a youth justice system that:

- is fair and equitable in holding young people accountable in a way that helps them get back on the right track
- focuses on advancing community and public safety as a primary goal as opposed to a punishment-centered response
- dismantles the legal system's legacy of institutional racism that is built on slavery, Jim Crow laws, and ongoing barriers to being a full member of society.
- centers rehabilitation and positive youth development in both the youth and adult legal systems
- minimizes the use of the legal system to achieve this vision, and values prevention over punishment

Equity and Inclusion

The advancement of youth of all races, ethnicities, sexual orientations, gender identities, or disabilities is foundational to achieving equity in our Commonwealth. Youth-serving agencies in Massachusetts need to address inequities both internally and in their policies and provision of services. These agencies – specializing in child welfare, education, policing and juvenile justice – express a commitment to the principles of diversity and racial equity. Despite this, there are documented disparities impacting young people at nearly every stage where decisions are made about youth in these systems. Addressing these disparities isn't always easy, but there are numerous proven strategies to help reduce or even eliminate them. Addressing the school-to-prison pipeline; supporting families so that children can remain home; reducing pre-trial detention; investing in community-based supports; improving race and ethnicity data collection and analysis are all potential steps that agencies and elected officials can take to address racial bias and inequity in our youth-serving agencies.

Positive Youth Development

The adoption of Positive Youth Development by all youth serving agencies and elected/appointed officials is key to advancing youth justice in the Commonwealth. Positive Youth Development is a framework to improve public safety and child outcomes by focusing on providing developmentally appropriate supports and interventions to help young people transition positively into adulthood. For youth involved in state systems, research demonstrates that young people need interventions that:

- are developmentally appropriate, based on age and level of ability;
- require youth to develop positive decision-making and concrete skills, further their education (including vocational) and engage with their families and other positive adult role models are far more likely to result in better youth outcomes and reduce youth interactions with the legal system;
- engage youth in effective, developmentally-appropriate therapy or treatment when necessary;
- avoid the use of institutional placements or incarceration unless necessary for public safety; and
- avoid exposing youth to the adult criminal legal system

THE KEY ISSUES

Child Welfare to Prison Pipeline

Children involved in the child welfare system are more likely to become juvenile justice-involved. They are entering the juvenile justice system at a higher rate than children not involved, and that minority children are disproportionately represented in both the child welfare and juvenile justice systems, particularly those who are:

- Removed from their homes in their early teens (ages 12-15)
- Removed multiple times from their homes
- Placed in congregate/group residential care
- Experience high rates of placement instability (bouncing from placement to placement)

Foster youth are too often not afforded the kinds of stabilizing support systems that are essential for their healthy growth and well-being. This puts them at high risk of developing reactive behaviors that, particularly for youth of color, lead to punitive responses resulting in their arrest and entry into the juvenile justice system. Involvement in the juvenile justice system is tied to academic failure, future arrests and other long-term consequences. In a study of 262 individuals incarcerated in House of Corrections facilities in Massachusetts, responses showed that nearly one-third of survey participants were removed from their homes as children, with higher rates among Latinx and Black participants. That study also found significant differences in home removal rates between heterosexual respondents and LGBTQ respondents. 37% of LGBTQ respondents had experienced a home removal, while only 25% of heterosexual respondents reported a home removal.

Racial Inequities in the Juvenile and Criminal Legal Systems

Massachusetts has one of the worst racial disparities for youth incarceration in the country despite more than a decade of reforms. While youth of color make up only 26% of the youth population in Massachusetts, they represent 73% of those arrested and 72%-74% of those who are detained or committed to the Department of Youth Services (DYS). Nationally, LGBTQ youth are twice as likely to enter the juvenile system as their non-LGBTQ peers and LGBTQ youth of color face even starker disparities comprising a staggering estimated 85% of LGBTQ youth in the justice system. Transgender individuals are nearly twice as likely to have been incarcerated as other LGBQ people, with transgender people of color reporting a rate of past incarceration four times higher than other LGBQ people.

These disparities cannot be adequately explained by differences in youth behavior; instead, inequities stem from different policing and court processing practices in communities of color. Massachusetts currently fails to report crucial data at most of the significant decision points in the juvenile justice system by race, ethnicity, gender identity and sexual orientation. As a result, we know that Black, Latinx and LGBTQ youth are incarcerated at higher rates, but we lack any transparency into data on the decision points from arrest to incarceration. By using data – rather than hiding it – system leaders could see disparities where they occur and identify and evaluate policies or practices that drive youth deeper into the system.

Shrinking the School-to-Prison Pipeline

The “school-to-prison pipeline” refers to school discipline and policing practices and policies that drive students out of the classroom, away from a pathway to success, and towards or into the juvenile or criminal legal system.

- The first pipeline involves frequent suspensions and expulsions that remove students from their classrooms and disconnect them from their school community, increasing their risk of legal system involvement and dropping out of school. Once outside of school, these students are more than twice as likely to be arrested during periods when they are suspended or expelled from school.
- The second pipeline involves arrest in school for behaviors better resolved through alternative approaches. Students are arrested and sent into the system for levels of disruptive behavior that in many cases could be handled through restorative or therapeutic approaches, leading to system involvement rather than addressing the underlying needs of that behavior.

The School-to-Prison Pipeline Disproportionately Impacts Black, Latinx and LGBTQ Youth.

According to a study of school-based arrests in Massachusetts’ three largest school districts, most arrests of students are reflective of youthful misbehavior, and predominantly not public safety risks. Additionally, the study found that Black and Latino children and children with disabilities are more likely to be arrested for behavior for which their white peers and non-disabled peers would not be arrested. LGBTQ youth, particularly transgender youth and youth of color, report experiencing high rates of abuse and harassment; are especially likely to face risk factors such as truancy out of fear of attending school, being involved in bullying and fight;, and experiencing homelessness, all of which are drivers of justice systems involvement. While Massachusetts data is not available, national data reveals that LGBTQ students are disproportionately suspended and expelled in comparison to their heterosexual and cisgender peers. This disparity is particularly true for LGBTQ youth of color who face higher rates of police involvement in middle and high school and higher rates of suspension and expulsion from school.

Raise the Age of Juvenile Jurisdiction Past Age 18

Massachusetts taxpayers spend the most on young people in the adult legal system, with the worst outcomes of any age group. Adolescents are highly amenable to rehabilitation as they grow and mature. However, older teens in Massachusetts are prosecuted as adults – and subject to the adult system’s focus on punishment and more severe collateral consequences. As a result, older teens have the highest recidivism rate of any age group, and double the rate for similarly situated younger teens in the juvenile system. The proposal to raise the age of juvenile jurisdiction past the 18th birthday would shift older teens into the juvenile justice system, where they must attend school and participate in rehabilitative programming that will improve youth outcomes and lower recidivism.

Expanding Expungement Eligibility

There is overwhelming evidence of racial disparities against Black individuals at every stage of the legal system – from policing and profiling, court proceedings to sentencing, and every stage in between. A record can present unjust, lifelong barriers for housing, employment, and education and it’s our goal to make sure that as many people as possible have an opportunity for a clean slate. Over the past four year, Massachusetts passed legislation that created an opportunity to expunge juvenile and adult criminal records for people whose offense was charged prior to their 21st birthday. While this law is a tremendous step forward, the law created significant limitations: there is lifetime ban on expungement eligibility of these records if the person has more than two cases on their record or if they have even one of over 160 offenses on their record (regardless of case outcome). Expanding expungement eligibility allows (1) all non-convictions to be eligible for expungement; and (2) limits the list of offenses ineligible for expungement to only those resulting in serious bodily harm.

ELECTED OFFICIALS AND THEIR DECISION-MAKING POWER AT KEY LEGAL SYSTEM POINTS

District Attorney

- Decide whether or not to press charges
- Can recommend probation or incarceration pre-trial and during sentencing
- Refer to diversion
- Can object to expungement

Sheriff

- Hold defendants 18 years and older awaiting trial
- Operate county jails where individuals 18 and older are sentenced to incarceration
- Decide programming and conditions in county jails.

Governor's Council

Councillors approve or reject the Governor's nominations of Judges and Parole Board

Judges
(appointed)

- Refer to diversion
- Can order pre-trial detention
- Decide guilt of a defendant who waives a jury trial
- Responsible for sentencing decisions

Parole Board
(appointed)

- Grant or deny parole requests
- Set conditions that parolees must comply with or risk re-incarceration

Each of these decisions result in social outcomes for individuals and communities.

HOW TO USE THE GUIDE

All candidates were presented with a series of yes/no and narrative questions. Questions were specifically tailored for the position candidates are running for (District Attorney, Governor's Council and Sheriff). All candidates running for the same office in their respective county or district were given the same questions and same criteria to respond.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY

Role of District Attorney

District attorneys are among the most powerful figures in the criminal legal system, as their decisions have a direct impact on case outcomes, mass incarceration, and recidivism rates. Elected to represent the state in criminal and juvenile delinquency proceedings, District Attorneys have the opportunity to be a force for change and reform in the legal system or they can uphold the status quo. Each county has one elected District Attorney, and while each of their jobs is the same, each office can prioritize issues they want to focus on.

- The District Attorney (DA) decides whether or not to prosecute a case (i.e., move a case into and through the formal court process). For example, one DA's office can refer a case to court, another DA's office can decide that certain minor offenses should not be prosecuted and a person will be diverted from court processing to a community-based alternative (known as "diversion", while still another DA's office can heavily rely on detaining young people while their case is pending trial.
- The DA always makes a recommendation to the judge as to what sentence a youth should get if they are found to have committed a delinquent act. This sentence could be a fine, probation, and/or incarceration.
- The DA may ensure the procedural integrity of law enforcement interactions with, and investigations of, young people by their decision to accept or reject evidence based on false or coerced confessions, illegal searches and seizures or through the use of force or other misconduct by law enforcement.

Racial, Ethnic and Other Disparities

District Attorneys have a major gatekeeping role in who enters and who is excluded from the legal system. Most DAs have diversion programs for young people, but there is no information publicly available to show if these diversionary programs are offered fairly so they don't exacerbate racial, ethnic, and other disparities - including those impacting LGBTQ young people and youth living with disabilities - in the juvenile system. Safe, confidential data collection, including SOGIE (Sexual Orientation Gender Identity and Expression) data, is especially important.

- Would you commit to publicly releasing non-identifying diversion and prosecution data, including race/ethnicity, gender identity and expression, and sexual orientation of defendants in misdemeanor and felony charging decisions, adjudications and convictions and declinations to charge, to address this gap in transparency?

Ricardo Arroyo

- Do you commit to submitting this data to the state's Juvenile Justice Policy and Data Board?

Diversion

Most District Attorneys divert young people charged with first-time offenses, or with low-level offenses. Research indicates that diversion is less costly to taxpayers and more effective in reducing youth crime than prosecution in court, even for youth with more serious offenses. Will you commit to expanding formal diversion to community-based rehabilitation programs as an alternative to prosecution for youth beyond those with low level or first time offenses?

Ricardo Arroyo
(Democrat)

Kevin Hayden
(Democrat)

Raise the Age

In 2013, Massachusetts raised the age of juvenile court to keep 17-year-olds out of the adult system, excluding murder cases. Since then, juvenile crime has declined by 64%, and has seen faster declines in violent and property crime rates than the national average. Young people ages 18 – 20 are highly amenable to rehabilitation, and keeping them in the juvenile system, where they must attend school and participate in rehabilitative programming will lower recidivism. Would you commit to supporting gradually raising the age of juvenile jurisdiction to include 18-, 19-, and 20-year-olds in order to ensure more young people mature as responsible and productive adults in our communities? If not for all of those ages, what age would you agree to support as the upper threshold of the juvenile system?

Ricardo Arroyo
(Democrat)

Kevin Hayden
(Democrat)

Law Enforcement Interrogations

Would you support legislation that would make the presence of an attorney during an interrogation a non-waivable right for juveniles?

Ricardo Arroyo
(Democrat)

Kevin Hayden
(Democrat)

Prosecution of consensual teen sexual activity

Massachusetts remains one of only 4 states in the country that criminalizes teenagers engaging in consensual sexual activity, subjecting teenagers to prosecution, incarceration, being placed on a sex offender registry and a lifetime ban on having their record ever expunged. The law is disproportionately used against boys, even if both youth are under age, and especially against boys in same sex relationships. Do you commit to declining to prosecute or diverting youth whose relationship is consensual?

Ricardo Arroyo
(Democrat)

Kevin Hayden
(Democrat)

Law Enforcement Interrogations

The legal cases, Frazier v. Cupp and Commonwealth v. DiGiambattista permits the use of deceit during interrogations of juveniles. Legislation overturning this has been enacted by Oregon, Illinois, and is currently moving in Colorado and Maryland. If legislation that bans the use of deception in juvenile interrogations and mandates the presence of counsel during any juvenile interrogation is not passed in Massachusetts, will you commit to a rebuttable presumption that your office will not move to introduce into evidence any statements obtained through false or deceptive interrogation practices?

Ricardo Arroyo
(Democrat)

Kevin Hayden
(Democrat)

Racial Disparities

The Harvard Law School analysis of racial disparities in Massachusetts' criminal legal system found that "One factor—racial and ethnic differences in the type and severity of initial charge—accounts for over 70 percent of the disparities in sentence length" for adults. While the study did not look at Juvenile Court data, these disparities hold true for young people too. What steps will you take to address racial disparities in charging decisions, bail recommendations, diversionary program placements and plea negotiations?

Ricardo Arroyo
(Democrat)

I believe written policies and senior staff who are truly committed to progressive prosecution are key to ensuring that all ADAs implement just policies in a consistent manner across all courts in our system. That is why I will re-implement Rachael Rollins's Do Not Charge list. The Do Not Charge List creates a rebuttable presumption that the listed offenses will not be charged, which puts in place a check on bias in the charging decisions that are made. Rather than prosecute people for these non-violent offenses, we should provide them with supportive services and offer community service, restitution, community engagement, or other restorative justice options. Additionally, my office will collect data on charges and results and be fully transparent about this data to ensure public accountability.

Kevin Hayden
(Democrat)

There is no doubt there are racial disparities in our system, and as the son of a former NAACP President I was taught its our responsibility to fix those issues. Our administration is focused on the person(s) involved in the case, and not just a formulaic approach to charges. So that means when someone of color is involved in our system a supervising ADA will look at the case and make suggestions. Those supervisors will be provided with training that teaches them how to assist in curing racial inequities in our system, and to take a holistic approach when determining how to move forward with the case, and the person(s) involved.

Equity and Inclusion

For youth, their race, ethnicity, gender identity, sexual orientation, and experiences as people with disabilities form important aspects of their identities. How would you make certain that your office will utilize an intersectional lens, taking into account young people's identities and experiences to develop and change your office's policies and practices that are gender-affirming, grounded in positive youth development and trauma-informed in order to meet the needs of all youth?

Ricardo Arroyo
(Democrat)

My Spanish language skills were crucial for many of my clients as a public defender, and I am committed to hiring a more diverse staff that reflects our county. It will be a priority for my administration to respond to victims, witnesses, and other people we interact with positively and respectfully, in a timely fashion, and allocate resources to ensure that we can provide services in their native language, and through practices that are gender-affirming and trauma-informed. All staff will receive training in serving diverse communities and racial backgrounds, immigrants both documented and undocumented, the LGBTQIA+ community, youth, and people with disabilities as well as trauma-informed training in issues related to domestic violence, family violence, hate crimes, and childhood sexual abuse.

Kevin Hayden
(Democrat)

Our office has hired a community engagement team that is focused on intervention and prevention methods for our youth. Meeting our youth where they are and providing programs with an intersectional lens. Our office also has an amazing LGBTQ+ Community Liaison and victim/witness advocates. These specialists are able to provide services that not only help with youth development, and practices around gender affirmation, but also assist in trauma informed programs as well.

School-to-Prison Pipeline

According to a study of school-based arrests in Massachusetts' three largest school districts, most arrests of students are reflective of youthful misbehavior, and predominantly not public safety risks. Additionally, the study found that Black and Latino children and children with disabilities are more likely to be arrested for behavior for which their white peers and non-disabled peers would not be arrested. LGBTQ students in Massachusetts report experiencing high rates of abuse and harassment. Nationally, LGBTQ students are disproportionately suspended and expelled in comparison to their heterosexual and cisgender peers. This disparity is particularly true for LGBTQ youth of color, as LGBTQ youth of color face higher rates of police involvement in middle and high school and higher rates of suspension and expulsion from school. How do you plan to utilize diversion or other tools at your disposal to prevent young people, especially vulnerable students with unmet social-emotional, behavioral, and academic needs as well as students with disabilities, from entering into the school-to-prison pipeline?

Ricardo Arroyo
(Democrat)

Growing up in Boston, I saw how criminalizing poverty, mental illness, and addiction harmed families and neighborhoods. And, as a public defender I fought everyday against systems that attempted to dehumanize my clients. In that work, I was able to help stabilize and connect people to the resources necessary to give them a chance to break cycles of inequity and oppression. As DA, my focus will be on intervention, diversion, and minimizing repeated contact with our criminal justice system for all youth. I am also a public advocate for raising the age so that more youth are kept in our juvenile system and not charged as adults. As DA, I will create an immigration impact unit that will assess immigration consequences of prosecution decisions. I oppose the gang database and police in schools, both of which contribute to the school-to-prison pipeline. And I will use my platform as the chief law enforcement officer in the county to advocate for adequate funding for education, housing, mental health programming, and youth jobs to make sure all youth have access to the opportunities they deserve.

Kevin Hayden
(Democrat)

As previously mentioned, our primary focus is on early intervention and prevention strategies by way of community engagement and outreach. By creating youth programs, employment opportunities, and acting as a fusion center for other community organizations we can assist our youth better than ever before. If a case reaches the touch point of our system we will be taking a holistic approach and focusing on the needs of the person(s) involved.

Foster Care-to-Prison Pipeline

At any one point, approximately 40% of youth in DYS detention and 30% of newly committed youth are concurrently DCF-involved. Girls in DYS are twice as likely as boys to be DCF-involved. Massachusetts data has shown that over 70% of youth committed to DYS were either currently or previously DCF-involved. Despite our responsibility to protect and support children in state custody, the DCF to DYS pathway persists, particularly for Black and Latino children and remains unaddressed. What prosecutorial decisions do you commit to pursue to disrupt the foster care to prison pipeline?

Ricardo Arroyo

Similar to the answers above, my office's rebuttable presumption list for non-violent offense and focus on diversion and programming that stabilizes youth going through hardship will help disrupt the foster care to prison pipeline.

(Democrat)

Kevin Hayden

(Democrat)

The best way to disrupt the pipeline is to prevent our youth from entering it in the first place. Going back to our early intervention and prevention strategies, our goal is to provide youth in foster care with programs that will not only address their current needs, but focus on their long term goals as well. By providing community of support & tailored programs we can begin to shut down the foster care to prison pipeline. If a case reaches the touch point of our system our administration will provide robust alternatives to prosecution where necessary - especially for our youth.

Mental Health

Research has shown that as much as 70% of youth in juvenile detention are diagnosed with a mental health condition and/or trauma, and the levels of trauma exposure during the pandemic have risen considerably, how would your office approach this issue when interacting and making decisions about juveniles in court?

Ricardo Arroyo

(Democrat)

The vast majority of my clients when I was a public defender struggled with mental health conditions and trauma. I fought to get my clients proper mental health evaluations and for ADAs to understand that my clients needed programming that would stabilize them instead of punishment. My front-line ADAs will receive training on how to take mental health into account when making charging decisions, and my office will work to connect people with necessary programming. Currently, there is no training for this in the DA's office.

Kevin Hayden

(Democrat)

Our office is committed to focusing on the person(s) involved in each case, not just a formulaic approach. That means when a juvenile reaches our system we will be focusing on the history of that person and what services they have or have not been provided. If the history of the case indicates a lack of mental health services for an individual with levels of trauma we are committed to providing the help that person needs.

Pre-Trial Conditions/E-Carceration

District Attorneys' recommendations about pretrial conditions are overwhelmingly adopted by judges. These conditions include whether an accused person should be detained by DYS or jailed pre-trial, or subjected to house arrest or other restrictions such as wearing an electronic monitor/ankle bracelet. Electronic monitoring as a condition of probation, both pretrial and post-disposition, is also increasing (though the data are not publicly available). E-carceration is sometimes seen as a lesser evil to incarceration, but it carries with it many concerns, including logistical, mental health, surveillance, and can reflect and further (rather than address) racial disparities. Do you plan to limit this office's use of recommending electronic monitoring and otherwise mitigate the concerns that its use has for many youth? Please explain.

Ricardo Arroyo
(Democrat)

Yes, electronic monitoring has been proven to be as harmful as incarceration as it relates to impacts on mental health and ability to successfully connect with necessary restorative justice and diversionary programs and opportunities. We will institute policies that limit this usage on youth except in the most extreme cases where doing so prevents incarceration.

Kevin Hayden
(Democrat)

Yes. One of our primary goals is to reduce incarceration, physically and electronically. Our focus for youth is on early intervention and prevention strategies in addition to robust diversion opportunities.

Record Expungement

The newly enacted criminal justice law creates some opportunities for the expungement of juvenile and criminal records created before the age of 21 (as long as their sentence is completed and they have not re-offended). This ensures that young people are afforded the opportunity to develop into healthy and successful adults without being held back by a prior record, particularly when those records do not serve a public safety benefit. Research has shown that individuals with a record who have not reoffended within three to four years are at no greater risk of offending than the general population. Yet these records can bar young people from housing, employment, college, and the military. The new law gives district attorneys the opportunity to object to a petition to expunge an otherwise eligible record. Do you support this expungement law? Under what circumstances would you object to expungement of records and why?

Ricardo Arroyo
(Democrat)

Yes, I am unaware of any reason to object to expungement. It is a factor that often impacts the ability of individuals to stabilize their lives.

Kevin Hayden
(Democrat)

Yes

Young Adult Recidivism

Young adults (18-24 years old) have the highest recidivism rates of any age group in the justice system. What reforms in the juvenile and the criminal legal systems do you support to improve outcomes for young people so they are better situated to mature into a more positive

Ricardo Arroyo
(Democrat)

Ending mandatory minimums, raising the juvenile age, ending cash-bail for non-violent offenses, improving expungement laws, and increasing funding for mental health, well-paying union jobs, and poverty reduction programs. Poverty, mental health, and substance use are the root causes of most crimes. We will reduce recidivism if we address those issues and end the vicious cycle of repeated interactions with our criminal justice system.

Kevin Hayden
(Democrat)

Our administration is committed to helping our youth, and meeting them where they are. Whether we are reaching them with early intervention or prevention strategies, providing diversionary methods to prosecution, or assisting with re-entry. Our focus is on the person and their needs so we can ensure a reduction in recidivism.

GOVERNOR'S COUNCIL

(listed on the ballot as "Councillor")

Role of Governor's Council

Judges are key players in the juvenile legal system. While judges in Massachusetts are not elected, the Governor nominates judges to be confirmed by an eight-member elected Governor's Council. The Governor's Council is responsible for investigating, confirming, or rejecting nominees for judgeships and for the parole board. The Council approves or rejects the Governor's recommendations for pardons and reductions of someone's sentence. The Council serves an important role in preventing the Governor from having sole power to control who becomes a judge. Because judges and parole board members are key decision makers in the legal system, Governor's Councilors' decisions impact key youth justice issues:

- The perspectives of nominated judges on youth development as it applies to young people in Juvenile, District and Superior courts
- Judges' decisions on racial equity in pre-trial detention and sentencing
- Judges decide if a young person is diverted to avoid a juvenile record; whether a young person is incarcerated pre-trial; the credibility of witnesses; and if a young person will be sentenced and remain in the community, will be incarcerated in the Department of Youth Services or in adult prisons and jails.
- Parole board members' perspectives on rehabilitation and youth development for individuals who were sentenced in their youth

Councillors are elected by State Senate districts, therefore some counties will be represented by one Councillor district, while other counties may be split between multiple Councillor Districts. Counties split between more than one district will include the listing of towns and cities to better identify which Councillor race will appear on your ballot.

I have been a public defender for 15 years, working in our Superior, District, and Juvenile Courts in Lawrence, Springfield and Worcester. We have never had a public defender on the Governor's Council, and that perspective is essential to making sure that our courts are balanced and working to do everything they can to ensure that everyone is treated fairly, with equal justice under the law.

All nominees for Juvenile Court appointments must demonstrate compassion and empathy, along with understanding of and respect for the science around child and youth development, including the science of brain development. Science tells us that the human brain is not fully developed until the age of 25. Prior to that, people simply do not have the decision-making skills and judgment of an adult, particularly when they are in an excited emotional state. It is essential that Juvenile Court judges and members of the Parole Board fairly evaluate the actions people took when they were young, and to evaluate their cases with that perspective.

Q3: The Governor's Council is the least understood elected body and one of the least transparent in terms of its proceedings, and its decisions on judicial and parole board nominees. How do you propose to improve transparency of the Governor's Council's work?

District 3

Marilyn Petitto Devaney
(Democrat)

Mara Dolan
(Democrat)

Transparency in government is essential. As Governor's Councilor, I will maintain a website with information about all nominees, along with any other relevant information. You will know who I am voting on, and why I am voting the way that I am. Governor's Councilors are the most consequential, least known elected officials in Massachusetts. Educating people about the role the Council plays is a key component of my campaign, and I will continue to work to educate the people of Massachusetts. Hearings are open to the public, both in person and online. I strongly encourage and invite people to attend hearings virtually and in person.

Q4: Disparities are pervasive in court proceedings and sentencing, including in juvenile court delinquency and child welfare proceedings. Youth of color, youth with disabilities and LGBTQ youth are over-represented at each stage of these systems. What are the problems you identify as factors for these disparities? How do you plan to use your role to mitigate these harms?

This question is personal for me, as my father came out in the early 1970's. At that time, what was only known as "homosexuality" was considered a mental illness, and acting on those feelings was against the law. I remember all too well how it used to be, and am deeply pained to see how many people want to take us back. Our current Juvenile Court bench, like our Trial Court bench, is heavily tilted toward former prosecutors. I will counsel the Governor, and continue to speak out to raise the issue of appointment more former defense attorneys, who are trained to question the assertions of law enforcement and prosecutors. Before I vote yes, I will make sure all nominees are free of any bias against the LGBTQ+ community, as well as any bias against people with disabilities. I will also make sure that all nominees are anti-racist, as Massachusetts incarcerates people of color 7-9x as often as whites. I will look at the history of all nominees to determine whether they have demonstrated that they will work to end systemic racism and discrimination in all forms. We must have equal justice under the law. Without that, our criminal justice system cannot provide the protections our law requires.

 Mara Dolan (Democrat)	I will encourage more diversion programs, and work to support nominees who will do the same. I have seen children taken into custody because their parents could not afford to pay a fine or a fee. I will always remember a seven-year-old girl I saw charged with shoplifting because she took a lip gloss. The experience of going to court is traumatic, and especially so for children. We must have judges and court officials who will work to keep youths away from our criminal justice system and, if they are prosecuted, make sure our court system is a place where people can be put in a better position once they leave, not facing a tougher hill to climb.

Q6: How do you plan to vet nominees' knowledge of and commitment to positive youth development principles such as avoiding the use of institutional placements or incarceration unless necessary for public safety; avoiding the exposure of youth to the adult legal system; and providing alternative opportunities for appropriate therapy or treatment?

I will ask them about their history, and look at their records. Have they demonstrated those commitments? Do they understand the harm of institutional placements and the necessity of avoiding them when possible? Are they open to resolving cases in ways that promote well-being and help people get to a better place? Character is destiny, and a person's history shows what their future will be.

Q7: There is a persistent lack of racial/ethnic diversity as well as lack of diversity in backgrounds of judicial and parole board nominees that are presented to the Governor’s Council. How would you use your position to address lack of diversity in the nominations presented to the Council by the Governor and the Judicial Nominating Committee?

Diversity is essential to the administration of justice. I will always advocate for a representative bench. One of the most powerful things you can do is bring attention to the problem. I do that now as a candidate and I will continue to do that after I am elected. We must have diversity among all judicial nominees and Parole Board members.

SHERIFF

Role of Sheriff

County sheriffs are responsible for the operation of county jails that hold adult defendants awaiting trial (such as those held on bail) and the operation of house of corrections, to which individuals are sentenced to serve two and a half years or less. County Sheriffs are key stakeholders on several youth justice issues:

- Sheriffs are responsible for young defendants and sentenced individuals as young as 18 years old and are key stakeholders in support of or opposition to the “Raise the Age” campaign.
- The Massachusetts Sheriffs Association has come out publicly opposing the protection of student confidentiality by limiting the information schools and law enforcement can share from surveillance, investigations, and conversations with school police.
- Sheriffs are also important players on immigration policy. Some county sheriffs have federal contracts to detain immigrants; sheriffs are legally authorized to enter agreements with the federal Department of Homeland Security to deploy local correctional staff as federal immigration officials (referred to as “287\(g\) agreements”) to enforce immigration law in the community.
- Responsible for programming for and education of young people in their custody and conditions of confinement including solitary confinement or providing healthcare. A recent report found that Massachusetts youth between the ages of 18 to 21 who are incarcerated in the adult criminal system face significant barriers to actually accessing educational programming and services. As a result, only a small fraction of those eligible for special education receive any specialized instruction or related services when incarcerated at adult correctional facilities.

Education

Older teens who are incarcerated before graduating high school have a right to continue their education. However, youth completing their high school education in county jails do not receive high school credits towards graduation.

Q1: Do you commit to working towards having your county's jail accredited as an educational institution to ensure students can earn high school credit for work done?

Q2: Do you commit to creating Educational Liaisons positions to work closely with local school districts in your county on individual students' transitions between schools and jail?

Steven Tompkins

Sandy Zamor-Calixte
(Democrat)

Q3: State and federal law guarantees that all students, including youth with an identified disability, receive a free and appropriate public education until a young person's 22nd birthday. However, an analysis of county houses of corrections found that around 75% (statewide average) of incarcerated 18- to 21-year-olds who have Individualized Education Plans (IEPs) are not identified by and do not receive the education they are entitled to. Do you agree to establish a data sharing mechanism between your agency and the Department of Elementary and Secondary Education (DESE) to quickly identify youth in your care 18-21 that have an IEP in place to provide special education services within one week of entering the facility?

Positive Youth Development

Q5: Positive Youth Development is a framework that builds upon and centers youth’s assets to improve educational opportunities, disciplinary strategies, and family/community engagement. Would you commit to adopting a Positive Youth Development framework, and seeking guidance and technical assistance from the Department of Youth Services to ensure proper adoption of the model, with youth ages 18-25 to respond to and prevent youth re-offending?

Steven Tompkins

Sandy Zamor-Calixte

Family Engagement

Q6: Will you commit to investing in enhanced family engagement, i.e. where family members are involved in case planning and transition planning (not just visits and phone calls) for every young person in your custody not just a select few in specialized units?

Restorative Justice

Do you commit to prioritizing the utilization of restorative justice as an alternate solution to disciplinary action?

Candidacy Goals

Q8: Why are you running for Sheriff?

Steven Tompkins
(Democrat)

Sandy Zamor-Calixte
(Democrat)

For the last 16 years, I served in the Suffolk County Sheriff's Department, working to address systemic barriers in our criminal legal system and build a community-first approach. I was hired by the Department in 2006 and was promoted twice, becoming the Chief of External Affairs and Communications in 2014. I hold a Masters in Criminal Justice from Northeastern University, a Bachelors of Arts in Psychology, and a Graduate Certificate in Social Justice from Harvard Extension School. After working within the system pushing behind the scenes for change, it is clear to me that the only way to implement the change we need in this Department is new leadership. I know that the experience, vision, passion, and integrity I would bring to this office is required to make the change we need to see in our Department and our communities.

Solitary Confinement

Q9: Given the harms of solitary confinement and the use of restrictive housing for discipline or protection on the development of youth incarcerated in adult correctional facilities, will you commit to alternatives to the use of restrictive housing? If so, how and if not, why not?

Steven Tompkins
(Democrat)

Sandy Zamor-Calixte
(Democrat)

I believe in implementing key reforms to help ensure our young people who end up in our criminal legal system get the supports and services they need to reenter their communities and have a second chance. I have made public commitments to key reforms including reducing the use of disciplinary segregation, administrative segregation and solitary confinement.

Young Adults

Q10: Youth as young as 18 are subject to incarceration in county jails that are designed for adults. What do you see are necessary reforms to adult corrections to ensure a focus on the growth, development and prevention of re-offending for all incarcerated young people (not just those in specialized units), particularly as it pertains to education, family engagement, pediatric physical and mental healthcare, conditions of confinement and civic engagement).

Steven Tompkins
(Democrat)

Sandy Zamor-Calixte
(Democrat)

I am running to make the department a place where people leave better than when they came and also a place where our staff comes to work every day proud knowing they were part of a system of change. We must do more to ensure all of the population – especially our youth – in our custody have the programs and services they need to best equip them to rebuild their lives and break cycles of incarceration after their time served. I have publicly committed to reforms to better support young people in our custody to support successful reentry and reduce recidivism including improving our educational programming and mental health services, implementing a Positive Youth Development framework, and pushing state leaders to increase the age at which an offender is charged in juvenile court to 21. I have also supported reforms that will serve to improve family engagement and services including no cost calls and revamping our programming to invest in the programs that are most effective at delivering educational improvement, family engagement, trauma management, and civic engagement.

Health and Safety

Q11: Given the particular vulnerability of young people, particularly LGBTQ youth, to victimization in custody, do you commit to protecting young people from sexual violence in your custody without using any form of segregated confinement or isolation or by utilizing community placements? Please explain how you will do so.

Steven Tompkins
(Democrat)

Sandy Zamor-Calixte
(Democrat)

It's the responsibility of the Sheriff and all department staff to keep all individuals in their care safe, regardless of identity or age. I am committed to completing an equity review of our Department to ensure that we are serving our population equally and meeting the needs of all. I would also review all operations and contracts to ensure that the health and well-being of those we serve are driving every decision the Department makes. Lastly, one of my first acts will be to implement implicit bias training to ensure we are decreasing use of force among officers and actively confronting systemic biases within our office.

Education

Q12: What policy and practice changes will you institute to improve educational access and attainment (including post secondary education) for all young people under the age of 26 in your custody?

Steven Tompkins
(Democrat)

Sandy Zamor-Calixte
(Democrat)

I firmly believe we need to improve educational access and attainment for all in our custody, including young people. I have committed to key reforms including enrolling all young people in HOC custody into a high school, HiSet, or community college class, improving the identification of youth in HOC custody who already have in place an Individualized Educational Program (IEP) and improve coordination with DESE and school districts to provide special services to these youth, and implementing positive youth development.

IMPORTANT VOTER INFORMATION

Am I eligible to vote?

You must be at least 18 years old, a US citizen on election day and registered to vote at least 10 days before the election.

I have a felony conviction, can I still vote?

YES!! In Massachusetts, only individuals currently incarcerated for an adult felony conviction are ineligible to vote. You CAN VOTE even if you have a criminal record, are incarcerated pre-trial or for a misdemeanor conviction, are committed to the Department of Youth Services, are in foster care or are homeless.

I don't have a stable place to live – I live in a foster home, group home, on the streets, or couch surfing with friends – how can I register and vote?

Your vote is YOUR right and YOUR voice is vitally important. Plan where the best place is for you to receive mail and which location is convenient to you to vote. Polling locations are generally close to the address that you choose. You can register to vote online. You can use the last permanent address you had, an address where you are frequently at even if you don't live there or even a street corner. Registration allows you to vote close to that area. The address where you register and where you receive your mail do NOT have to be the same. All voters have the option to vote by mail. If you have a reliable mailing address, such as at a shelter, voting by mail may be a convenient option to you. If you do not have a reliable mailing address, check if your city or town offers early voting. You may go to the elections department or any early voting polling location and vote at a date and time convenient to you.

I don't have an ID. Will that stop me from voting?

Most voters are not asked for an ID to vote. However, there are limited circumstances that a poll worker can ask for your ID, for example, this is your first time voting ever, or there is a discrepancy in their records.

You will NEVER need to present a picture ID. Any legal document showing your name and address would suffice – these include a letter from a shelter, a utility bill, a bank statement, a letter from a government agency could all work. If you do not have that document, you may ask for a "provisional ballot" and return with the appropriate paperwork.

No one except a poll worker is allowed to ask for identification. Not a private person acting as an "observer" or someone dressed in a suit standing on the sidelines. No one can challenge you because you "look" like you are not allowed to vote or because you speak a language other than English.

I have a Green Card / Legal Permanent Resident status in the US. Can I vote?

No. Only US citizens can legally vote in all federal and state elections, and most municipal elections. If you are not a US citizen, attempting to or even registering to vote is not allowed. However, newly naturalized citizens can vote. Though several cities voted to allow non-citizens to vote in local elections, such as for school committee, the state legislature has never approved it to move forward. Legislation to open voting to non-citizens for local elections, such as for the school committee, is being considered in the State House, but has not passed yet.

Am I registered to vote?

You can find your voter registration status at RegisterToVoteMA.com. Once you are registered to vote, you do not need to register again unless you change your address, political party, or name.

Can I register to vote if I am younger than 18?

If you are at least 16 years old, you can pre-register to vote. If you are at least 18 years old, you can register to vote. You can register or pre-register online at RegisterToVoteMA.com

Why are there two elections so close to each other?

A Primary Election allows voters to choose candidates from one of two political parties (Democratic or Republican). The primary election winners from each party will face off in a General Election. The winners of the General Election will take office in January 2023.

Who should I vote for? Can I see a sample ballot before I vote?

The Secretary of State publishes sample ballots online to preview the ballot you will receive for the primary and general elections. Enter the address where you are registered to vote at WhereDoIVoteMA.com. You can download a copy of the ballot with the Democratic or Republican candidates. You can only vote using the ballot of the political party to which you are registered to vote. If you are "Unenrolled", you may choose either one of these ballots to vote on.

Where do I vote?

You can find your polling location for in-person or early voting at WhereDoIVoteMA.com.

Can I vote before election day?

Yes, you can vote early by mail. Every Massachusetts city and town must provide early voting options for state primary and general elections.. Check EarlyVoteMA.com for locations and hours of early in-person voting locations. See "Important Election Dates" for voting by mail information.

Can I vote by mail before election day?

Yes, you need to download a form asking for your ballot at www.MailMyBallotMA.com and mail it to your local election department. See "Important Election Dates" for more details.

Can I receive a ballot in languages other than English?

Some cities and towns offer bilingual ballots:

- Voters can access election materials in Spanish in: Boston, Chelsea, Holyoke, Lawrence, Lowell, Lynn, Revere, Southbridge, Springfield, Worcester.
- Voters can access election materials in Chinese in: Malden (Traditional), Quincy (Mandarin).
- Voters can access election materials in Khmer in: Lowell.

I received my mail-in ballot but I didn't mail it by the deadline? Can I still vote?

Yes. You can only vote once in each election, either by mail or in-person. If you received a ballot but did not mail it, you can go in-person to your regular polling location to vote.

VOTE BY MAIL

Due to the VOTES Act, all voting in elections may now be done by mail or in-person. This is a new law, so you need to make sure you do it correctly to make your vote count.

STEP 1: Ask for a ballot by mail

- Fill out the application that was sent in the mail (the size of a postcard).
- If you don't have that application, you can apply online at MailMyBallotMA.com.
- Make sure your information is up to date, especially if you moved since the last election!
- Check the box to request ballots for ALL 2022 Elections. This will ensure that you receive ballots for both the September Primary Election and the November General Election.
- If you are "unenrolled", but would like to vote in the primary, select which primary ballot you would like to receive. This will not enroll you in the party.
- Sign and date your application. If your application is not signed it will not be processed, so make sure to sign before you send!
- Tear off and drop it in the mail AS SOON AS POSSIBLE! NO POSTAGE REQUIRED.
- Your local election agency must receive the application no later than August 26th.

STEP 2: Your local elections official sends you a ballot by mail.

- Look for a large yellow envelope with the words "State Election Ballot Enclosed"
- You must vote with the mail-in ballot.

STEP 3: You fill out the ballot and return it to your election official by mail or drop-off early in-person

- Vote on the ballot
- Place your ballot in the yellow envelope and seal that envelope.
- Sign the yellow envelope and print your name and address below your signature.
- Place the signed envelope inside the white envelope and seal that envelope.
- You can return the ballot by mail or in-person. No postage required.

How do I know if my ballot made it? What if I can't mail my ballot?

- You can track your mailed ballot at TrackMyBallotMA.com
- If for any reason you were unable to mail your ballot or changed your mind, or your ballot did not make it to your local election department by election day, you can still vote in-person at your regular polling place.

GLOSSARY

Adjudication: A final decision on a case where a child is found either delinquent or not delinquent.

Arraignment: The formal start of a legal case in court, at which point a juvenile or criminal record is created.

DCF: Department of Children and Families, the state agency responsible for child welfare and foster care services.

Delinquent: The juvenile justice system's equivalent of a "guilty" case outcome.

Detention: Incarceration of a young person pre-trial to ensure they will return for their next court date, as decided by the judge.

Disposition: The sanction or punishment imposed on a juvenile defendant who is found delinquent or not delinquent (similar to a sentencing in the adult system). It can include a continuance without a finding, being found delinquent and placed on probation, committed to the Department of Youth Services for incarceration or other supervision or penalties in the adult system including incarceration in adult prisons or jails as a youthful offender.

District Courts: Courts that handle misdemeanor and low-level felony cases for adults and can sentence someone to up to 2½ years in the house of corrections.

Diversion: Any practice by which the police, district attorney Clerk Magistrate, or judge redirects a young person's case from the formal justice system to an alternative form of handling. This prevents further involvement in the juvenile justice system. Diversion practices are used to avoid arrest, getting a juvenile record or incarceration, depending on the decision point.

DYS: Department of Youth Services, the state agency responsible for holding young people in detention pre-trial or as committed to their custody during a juvenile court adjudication.

Expungement: The total destruction of a juvenile or criminal record, so that no one may access the record.

Indictment: A decision made by a Grand Jury to formally charge a person with a serious crime allowing for longer sentences of incarceration. An adult would have their case moved to the Superior Court and may result in a state prison sentence. For a juvenile, an indictment is a decision by the Grand Jury to charge a youth as a "Youthful Offender" that while remaining in the Juvenile Court, opens up longer sentences in DYS and/or adult incarceration.

Juvenile Courts: The court responsible for child-related cases, including child welfare (called care and protection), Child Requiring Assistance, and juvenile justices cases. The court cases are overseen by judges who are nominated by the Governor and approved by the Governor's Council.

Probation: The supervision of a defendant by the courts pre-trial or as a sentence, in lieu of detention or incarceration.

Prosecutor: The attorney representing the state government in juvenile and criminal cases. The elected District Attorney oversees, supervises and sets policy for all the prosecutors, or Assistant District Attorneys, in their county.

Recidivism: A return to offending behavior by someone who was previously involved in the legal system. Recidivism is sometimes measured as a re-arrest, re-conviction, or re-incarceration for a new crime.

Sealing: A process by which a juvenile or criminal record is given greater privacy by limiting which entities (ex. employers or landlords) may access the record.

Superior Courts: Courts that handle very serious felony cases for adults, and can sentence defendants to state prison.

"Youthful Offender" (YO) indictment: A type of juvenile court case of serious felonies, where a prosecutor can ask for a case to be heard by a Grand Jury. A young person adjudicated as a "Youthful Offender" is subject to a longer sentence to DYS, a sentence of adult incarceration or a combination of both.
