

Massachusetts Coalition for Juvenile Justice Reform

Summary of An Act Relative to Justice, Equity and Accountability in Law Enforcement Chapter 253 of the Acts of 2020

Responding to the calls across the Commonwealth to dismantle structural racism and address police misconduct, the Massachusetts legislature passed race equity and law enforcement accountability legislation on November 30, 2020. However, Governor Baker returned the bill with proposed amendments threatening a veto if his amendments are not adopted. This legislation offers concrete, necessary first steps to increase police accountability and racial equity in the Commonwealth, including specific, concrete steps to address harms that young people face from overzealous and biased policing. On December 31, 2020, the Justice, Equity and Accountability in Law Enforcement was signed into law, after approving most of Governor Baker’s amendments to the bill.

This law was touted as a first step in addressing racial inequities in the Commonwealth, opening up opportunities for further advocacy in the 2021-2022 legislative session.
